

1 A(N INNER) MONOLOGUE ABOUT TIME

Time is circularity within a linear movement.

A clock is round.

What is round is a circle.
A circle is always in place

in any position.

A circle is timeless.

And time simply goes... ..

Twenty-one
twenty-one

time goes, we stay (home).
Oh no, ~~time stays, we go.~~

2 AN EXERCISE FOR ACTIVE INACTIVITY OR RUNNING ROUND IN CIRCLES

- 1 Pick a collection of equal units
- 2 Bring the collection with you to a space
- 3 Free yourself from clocktime
- 4 Start with one central unit, place it on the floor
- 5 Position the rest around it in expanding circles

Step by step, unit by unit, circle by circle...

* This exercise is best enjoyed without distractions. Try to do it in silence and in one go.

Hi!

I am Jeannette Weiss, an artist + designer, based in Munich, Germany. Other than that, I am a hands-on worker, conceptual thinker, curator, collector and poetic writer.
